

Objetivos principales

- To train you to plan, design, oversee, execute and manage all activities involved in industrial Management engineering.
- To provide you with comprehensive training in key concepts and technologies and equip you to learn new methods and theories, as well as to apply information and communication technologies to the field of Industrial Management Engineering.
- To train you in basic principles of business administration and management, as well as to encourage you to innovate in the field of Industrial Management Engineering.
- To train you as a responsible professional who takes an ethical approach to problem-solving and decision-making, applying creativity and critical reasoning at all times.
- To train you to work in multidisciplinary teams in international environments, as well as to communicate and convey knowledge, developments and results in the field of Industrial Management Engineering.

The course summary contains the full list of academic skills certified by the Bachelor's Degree in Industrial Management Engineering at the University of Jaén.